"The Versatiles" to Return

The announcement that "The Versatiles," that all-star aggregation of Old Country comedians and comedienne, was to return to Red Deer, has created quite a stir among theatre-goers of this city who know a good thing when they see it. The "Versatiles" played here last season and won a place in the esteem of those who saw them that will ensure them of a large and appreciative patronage on their return visit. F. Stuart-Whyte, the manager of the company, has not been satisfied to rest on his laurels and just bring the same company back again this year, but in addition to all of the old favorites he has added six new members, bringing them all the way from London to Vancouver to augment his cast of stars on their second annual tour of Canada.

The new vehicles, "The Canadian Express" and "Up the River," are two of the greatest musical comedies ever written, and the staging and costuming is of the highest order. The idea of the Old Country Pierrot show was so successful last season that he has included it again this season, and each of the musical offerings is preceded by the Pierrots in a short programme of songs and dances.

Old Timer Married

Thanksgiving Day was a day of thanksgiving in more ways than one to our old friend Evan Richards, elder brother of J. J. Richards, our well known horse and cattle breeder. Evan, who owns a ranch east of Carstairs, on that day took to himself a winsome and blushing bride in the person of Miss Jane Miller, sister of one of the prominent ranchers in that neighborhood. Evan was one of Red Deer's old timers, coming here with his father in the eighties, when he was a little chap, and a few years ago taking up land east of Carstairs. The happy couple spent a short time with Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Richards and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. White, after which they took the train at Red Deer for home, followed by the host wishes of a large number of friends, who wish them all the joys of wedded bliss and that all their troubles may be little ones.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. James Robertson, of Bonnybridge, Scotland, and parents of the late James Melville Robertson, desire to thank his friends and members of the engineering staff of the Alberta Central railway for the many acts of kindness shown him while in life, and the respects paid to his memory in death, all of which are much appreciated by his relatives in Scotland in their unavoidable absence.

Return of E. Michener, M. P. P.

E. Michener, M.P.P., who recently went through a senior operation for appendicitis at the Royal Alexandra Hospital, Edmonton, returned to his home in Red Deer on Sunday last, accompanied by D. A. Campbell, his secretary. Mr. Michener was met at the C.P.R. depot by Mrs. Michener, Miss Michener, Frank Michener, W. E. Chadsey, C. W. Parke and others. Mr. Michener, although in a very weak state, looked very bright, and said he was satisfied that he was on the right road to complete health.

Old Timer Passes Away

The death of William James Walton, one of the old timers of this district, took place at the residence of his son, Thomas J. Walton, Edwell, on Monday afternoon last, at the ripe age of eighty years. Deceased was not particularly ill, but just passed quietly away, his wife having preceded him about two years ago. He was born near Otterburne, Northumberland Co., England, and came to Ontario 20 years ago. In 1892 he moved to Edwell and took up land, where he has resided ever since. He was an adherent of the Presbyterian Church, and a respected member of the community in which he resided. Besides his son T. J., he leaves four daughters and three sons to mourn his death, namely: Mrs. R. Hewat, Fairview, B.C.; Mrs. B. Huffman, Calgary; Mrs. Edwards, London, England; Mrs. Chas. Kendrick, Edwell, Alta.; Mr. Walton, Meterton, Joe and George Walton, Drumheller, Alta.

The funeral took place from Edwell yesterday afternoon for Pine Lake cemetery, where interment took place. Rev. Mr. Currie conducting the services.

NEW EIGHT-SHEET

CURLING RINK.

At a meeting of the Red Deer Rink Company, yesterday afternoon, it was decided to start work at once on the erection of a fine large addition to the curling rink, enlarging the capacity to from three to eight rinks. The building will be improved in every way, and will be a great credit to the city. It is understood that Hugh Clark was the lowest tender for the contract, and work will start today.

HAROLD JARVIS AT THE METHODIST CHURCH

Harold Jarvis, probably the finest tenor singer in the Dominion, supported by Miss Mary Lyon, pianist and reader, gave a concert in the Methodist Church on Monday night, which was perhaps the best ever heard in that line by the citizens of Red Deer. It was unfortunate that there were so many counter attractions, but, notwithstanding that, there was a fairly good attendance, every one enjoying the concert to the fullest extent. Mr. Jarvis was in splendid form, in fact, he was heard at his best, and Miss Lyon was repeatedly encored for her numbers. The unanimous opinion being that she never was surpassed in Red Deer. She was a surprise packet, having her audience spellbound or in laughter most of the time. Everyone is talking of her success.

DISTRICT COURT.

Judge Lees continued court on Wednesday last with the following cases:

Seymour et al. v. Dawe, Tudhope v. Wilson, and Hansen v. Bell. The case of Seymour v. Dawe was adjourned to the next sitting of the court on condition that the defendant paying the plaintiff the costs of the day at least ten days before the next sitting, otherwise plaintiff to be entitled to judgment of amount of claim and costs.

Tudhope v. Wilson was adjourned till next court by consent of both parties.

HANSEN V. BELL.

In this case His Honor found that the mare sued for came to her death as much, or more, through the negligence of the plaintiff and his assistants, Clayton as through the fault of the defendant. The method used in catching the mare was negligent and brutal, but the negligence and brutality were shared in all three. That the plaintiff to justify or excuse his participation or non-participation says that he relied on the skill and judgment of the defendant, but a man must not so rely to the extent of divesting himself of his common sense and common humanity. When plaintiff saw his mare in trouble in the consequence of the treatment which she was subjected to he was his duty at once to put a stop to that treatment, more particularly because he was in a better position than defendant to observe the effect of the ropes upon the mare. His Honor dismissed the action, but without costs, in order to mark the disapproval of the court of the part taken by the defendant in the affair. Mr. Smith (Moore & Scott) for the plaintiff. Mr. Quigg for the defendant.

Oil Discovered in Red Deer

EVERY INDICATION THAT F. KRAUSE HAS STRUCK IT RICH

Everybody you meet these days is talking of oil, and Red Deer is no exception to the rule. There is no shadow of a doubt that there are people in Red Deer who have had in their possession indications of petroleum for a number of years past, but from various causes have been afraid to venture making the matter public. One of these men is Fred Krause, an old timer, at present proprietor of the Alexandra Hotel. In an interview granted to our representative, Mr. Krause stated that for the past six years he had noticed indications of oil and gas in certain places, and had gone to the trouble of sending up matter that would help him decide whether it was worth going further into or not. He had come to the conclusion that he was on the right track, but was biding his time, as he termed it, when all of a sudden there came a rush from Innisfail to file on lands in that district, and he thought it would make people in Red Deer begin to look around for indications here, so he went and filed on sections 18 and 20, his son filing on 28. Since then some fifty claims have been staked, and there is a feeling that it will not be long before there is a big rush in this quarter. Mr. Krause took our representative in his car and pointed out to him oil on the water and mud of the bed of the river for a considerable distance, which was evidently coming from the banks of the river. A distance further along indications of oil and gas are very prominent in the sandstone rock itself. In another place a mile away a small creek high above the river is covered with an oily substance different to that usually found on sloughs. On examination of a quantity of mud taken from the ground, looking through a microscope, oil capsules were seen in very large quantities. J. W. Robinson on being taken to the place, and being shown the oil indications, said immediately that it was the most likely place he had seen and showed better prospects than any other, and he went straight to the land office and filed on a claim. Mr. Krause declares he would not take $100,000 for his claim today, and he is taking steps to go into the matter at once of finding out the possibilities of sinking a well. There are lots of people who think there is nothing to it and look with ridicule on those who have what they term gone made on the question; but the same thing happens in every case, and then, the same people cry, in the event of success, Oh, I had the chance. I knew years ago there was oil there, or, in the event of failure, I told you so. There is no earthly reason why the oil should not be found in Red Deer as well as any other place, and it is a notable fact that in Engineer Dave's report to the City Council on Thursday last, on the gas question, he stated that geological conditions were not so good as in the Red Deer district, and that there were more chances of striking oil than gas. At the time this report was made out there was no talk of oil, but the air so far as Red Deer district goes.

Public Meeting to Discuss Gas

A public meeting of the citizens of Red Deer is called for Thursday evening to discuss a question of boring for gas, and all citizens are urged to attend. The meeting will be held in the city hall shortly after eight o'clock.

A SKATING RINK.

There is every indication that a skating rink will be built this fall. Aldermen Hotell and Leck were appointed a committee to investigate the question by the Council, and they are giving the problem their earnest attention. They are meeting with success, and the News has full confidence in these gentlemen carrying out the scheme of erecting a handsome new skating rink to a safe and same conclusion with the assistance of the citizens of the city, who are interested in the matter.

OVER 23 POUNDS OF BUTTER A WEEK.

H. S. Pearson is very enthusiastic over the wonderful yield of milk by the Holstein cow, Vronka Queen, on the Old demonstration farm, and the property of the Provincial Government. The cow is six years old, and produced in seven days 523 pounds of milk, containing 93 per cent of fat, which was equal to twenty-three and three-quarter pounds of 80 per cent butter. The cow has been milking 110 days. Mr. Pearson was present, saw the milked, and tested the milk himself. This was one of the highest record tests for seven days ever made in the Dominion of Canada.

"FROCKLES" AT THE EMPRESS.

Stirring play of "Frockles" was staged at the Empress Theatre on Monday night to a good house. The reputation of the play had preceded it, and to those who had the pleasure of seeing it, and more especially those who had read the book, it gave entire satisfaction. The play brought out very strongly the power of right over might. The boy Froekles, tempted to do wrong but withstands all bribes and comes out on the right side. The love story that runs through the play is very fine, and the singing of Froekles caught on with the audience. He has a splendid tenor voice, and uses it to advantage with the girl he loves, Angela. The whole play went with a swing from start to finish, all of the characters being taken in a manner that brings credit to the virtue of the company. Frank Owen and Agnes Lettice as Mr. and Mrs. Duncan were really great in showing what love should be like. They were a bright star in the play, while Robert B. Thurston and Chas. L. Norman were also splendid characters. Julius Volio, as Froekles, and Carrie Bellemore, as Angela, were well matched, and the centre of attraction. The scenery, too, was worthy of all praise, and the company will be assured of a better welcome in the event of their again appearing in Red Deer.

EXTENSION LECTURES.

The Red Deer School Board have arranged for the following extension lectures to be delivered in the school during the season, by the Alberta University Professors. The first lecture will be on Tuesday, November 11th, by Dr. Alexander, his subject being "An Evening With Tennyson." This will be followed on November 25th with Great Architecture, illustrated by Prof. Burgess.

January 6th—"An Ideal System of Education," by President Torg. January 20—"The Geological History of the Rocky Mountains," by Dr. Allen.

February 3—"Comets, Meteors, and Polar Light," by Dr. Killar. February 17—"Words and Their Ways," by Dr. Gordon. The above subjects are good representation of scientific and literary works, and should prove very satisfactory. The Red Deer Board are to be commended for giving the citizens a chance of listening to such intellectual and it is to be hoped that they will show their appreciation and co-operation by attending the lectures in large numbers.

SUPREME COURT SITTINGS.

The Supreme Court sittings opened in the Oddfellows' Hall yesterday before Justice Scott. There is a rather heavy list of criminal cases, and a number of non-jury cases. Court opened at 2 o'clock p.m., the first case taken being a charge of murder against A. E. Main, having shot and killed Robert Metcalf near Carstairs; Alta. The principal witnesses in this case are Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Mr. McNeil, with Crown Prosecutor Mr. M. Biggar representing the Crown, and W. J. Logie, L. A. Corey, and G. C. M. Booth counsel for the defence. The jury consists of Herbert Allen, Chris. White, J. Adams, Elmer Tisworth, A. W. G. Allen and C. A. J. Sharman. Case proceeding.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE.

A very interesting meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the lecture room of the Methodist Church on Saturday afternoon, October 4th, when Mrs. W. A. Moore gave a practical demonstration of setting table and serving, breakfast, luncheon and dinner. She explained the Russian and English methods, and also a combination of the two, after which a general discussion followed. The next meeting will be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon on Saturday, November 8th, in the lecture room of the Methodist Church, at the home of the President, Mrs. W. A. D. Lees. Mrs. Cunningham will give a talk on preserving and pickling, after which tea will be served. Each member is requested to bring a jar of her favorite preserves, jelly or pickles, and to be prepared to give the recipe for same. These donations will be given to the hospital. So far the Women's Institute has met with phenomenal success, and it is hoped that not only all the present members but also new ones will attend this meeting.

DETAILS OF NEW TAXATION

Twenty-Eight Public Acts Being Amended to Provide Increased Revenue

COLLECTION OF UNEARNED INCREMENT TAX WILL OPEN PEOPLE'S EYES.

Edmonton, October 23.—Statute law amendments presented in the legislature yesterday provide alterations in 28 public acts. Motor car license fees are more than doubled, fines for infringements of the motor act are doubled; liquor license fees are doubled; brewery fees are increased from 400 to 2,500 per cent. In fact the statute law amendments are a striking confirmation of the government's real to extract increased revenue from every possible source.

The government's plan to arrive at values for the purpose of imposing the tax on unearned increment of land is also contained in the amendments to the land titles act of 1906. The following clauses explain the process:

2.—The value of land and improvements for the purpose of this act and of the unearned increment tax act, shall be ascertained by the oath or affirmations of the transferor and transferee of such land or of such other person or persons on behalf of either or both of them as the registrar believes to be acquainted with the value of the land and whose oath or affirmation he is willing to accept.

3.—Such oaths or affirmations may be in form in the schedule to this act, and shall be necessary in all cases where any new duplicate certificate of title is required to be issued whether or not any fees are payable in respect to such land under the provisions of this section or of the unearned increment tax act.

OFFICIAL VALUATION.

4.—If the value of the land or of the improvements as set out in the affidavit sworn by or on behalf of the transferor and transferee respectively are not the same, or if for any other reason the values are unsatisfactory to the registrar he shall cause the valuation to be made by an inspector of transfers and such valuation shall be taken to be the value of such land or improvements and shall bind the parties to the transfer.

3.—By adding after section 117 the following new section:

"117 A.—The lieutenant-governor in council may appoint one or more inspectors of transfers and it shall be the duty of such inspectors to investigate such valuations as the registrar of lands titles may require and report thereof and to perform such other duties as the lieutenant-governor in council may from time to time assign to them."

Following these provisions is set forth a declaration form which must be filled out by the transferor, or transferee of lands. Value of all improvements must be defined, and in the case of agricultural lands the value of clearing, breaking crops, well and other improvements must be set down along with the unimproved value of the land in question.

Amendments to the motor act will prove of widespread interest. In the past a registration fee of $10 has been collected for autos and $3.00 for motorcycles. Under the amendments motorcycles will pay $5.00.

Motor cars rating below 30 horsepower will pay $10; between 30 and 40 horsepower, $20; and over 40 horsepower, $30. Fines for exceeding fifteen miles an hour on city streets, for passing cars from which passengers are alighting, or into which they are getting, and for driving on public highways at a rate which menaces public safety are increased heavily.

First offenders will be liable to a fine of $50, instead of the familiar $20, for second offences the penalty amounts from $50 to $100 and costs, or one week's imprisonment for both third offence, formerly punishable with a fine of $100, may be met with a fine of $200 and imprisonment for term of not less than one week or more than one month. Conviction on a third offence also means forfeiture of the license. A moiety of all fines under these provisions goes to the municipalities making the prosecutions.

BREWERIES MULCTED.

Liquor license law amendments are creating interest among hotelmen and among brewers. In the past breweries were assessed a flat annual fee of $210. Hereafter the license will be graduated according to output. Breweries manufacturing less than 250,000 gallons per year will pay $1,000; between 250,000 and 500,000 gallons, the fee will be $2,000; between 500,000 and 1,000,000 gallons, $3,500; over 1,000,000 gallons, $5,000.

Hotel fees are doubled. City hotels will pay $800 annually; city hotels, $400. Club licenses in cities of over 20,000 population are set at $800; between 10,000 and 20,000 population, $400; other places, $250. Even the bartenders are to feel the stress of the government's campaign for money. Their licenses are to be raised from $2 to $10 with an annual renewal fee of $2 into the bargain. Banquets for which special permits are to be issued must be held in a room where meals are usually served.

Subjects of all examinations under the medical profession act shall be such as shall be prescribed by the senate of the University of Alberta. This departure is announced in the amendments. Another somewhat radical provision gives the council unique authority to license an unqualified person to practice medicine. It reads as follows:

"(10)—The council shall grant an interim license entitling the person therein named to practice medicine on his producing a certificate from the registrar of the university showing that he is entitled to take the examination for candidates for admission to practice, and upon his satisfying the council that he has located, or will locate and practice, until having passed the said examination at a place not less than 20 miles from any then licensed medical practitioner, providing that such interim certificate shall only continue in force until the holding of the next ensuing examination for admission to practice, unless the same be therefor extended by the council for a further or additional period not exceeding one year.

"(11)—The Council shall keep a register of all persons holding an interim license and the council shall admit upon such register such persons upon payment by them of a registration fee of $5."

ESTATE OF LUNATICS.

The attorney general abrogates to himself extensive powers over the estate of lunatics and alleged lunatics in an amendment to the insanity act that reads: "When the attorney general is satisfied that the personal estate and the rents, profits and incomes of the real estate of an insane person are sufficient for his maintenance or his family, or for the proper education of his children when for any other cause it shall appear desirable so to do, upon instructions of the attorney general, any trust company to which a delegation of the guardianship of the estate of an insane person has been made under the section, without applying to, or petitioning the court for a declaration of lunacy, or for an order touching the sale, mortgage or other disposition of any real estate of such insane person, shall have full power and authority to sell, mortgage or otherwise dispose of the said real estate or any portion thereof, and to execute the necessary transfers, deeds, conveyances, agreements or mortgages and to accept mortgages as security for the purchase money or any part thereof without applying to or petitioning the court."

"Such deeds, transfers, conveyances, agreements or mortgages when the approval of the attorney general has been endorsed thereon shall be registered by the registrar of the land registration district in which the lands then described are situated. In case the attorney general does not delegate the guardianship of the estate of an insane person, he shall have all the powers in authorities in reference to the real and personal estate of an alleged lunatic as are hereby vested in a trust company."

BODIES FOR RESEARCH.

The university act, being chapter 7 of the statutes of Alberta, 1910, is amended as follows: 1.—By adding after section 89 the following new section: "89A.—It shall be the duty of every public officer having in charge the body of any deceased person that would require to be buried, but at the public expense, and also of every hospital, every penal or corrective institution and every eleemosynary or public institution support or receiving financial aid from the province upon demand to hand over to the university or such officers as it may appoint for such purposes the bodies of deceased inmates of such institutions not claimed by the immediate relatives or legal representatives of the deceased, and the university shall keep a careful record of each such body so received by it, and shall be at liberty to use such bodies for anatomical purposes and for scientific instruction and research."

The Workmen's Compensation act is amended to avoid legal difficulties where a workman claims salary for the full length of his inability to earn full pay as the result of an accident or mishap while engaged in his work. Amendments to the insurance act made it possible to obtain returns from any corporation of all insurance carried together with amounts, and names of companies in which such insurance is carried.

SIR WILFRID AND THE TARIFF.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier's tariff policy has never been a consistent one; in fact, in the parlance of the street, he is a precious old hump. In 1896, when he came into power, he was a free trader and had the undivided support of the free trade element, commercial interests, disgruntled annexationists, and the like. Besides this, the Conservative party were quarrelling among themselves, and the old adage "A house divided against itself cannot stand" proved true in this case, and the Liberal party came into office.

One would naturally have thought Sir Wilfrid Laurier would have made some small concession by a reduction in the tariff, or made some show at least of favoring those who supported him. But this was not the case. He appointed a commission to look into the tariff, and they reported that it would not be wise to make any change in the Conservative tariff. For sixteen years he was in power, and during all that time he reduced the tariff less than two per cent. It would have taken him about a thousand years to get down to free trade at that rate.

The first time he made a break away from the Conservative national policy of protection, he went down to defeat. Now he is again taking up the strain of his old song, dropped in 1896, and urging a lower tariff, and that the people are being taxed to death, although it is his own tariff and his own tax that is in existence today. The Conservative party during the short two years it has been in power has reduced the tariff more than Sir Wilfrid Laurier reduced it during the sixteen years he held the reins of government.

WESTERN RESOURCES.

The Winnipeg Free Press is angry says The Toronto News, because Mr. Borden has not handed over the land, timber and other natural resources of Saskatchewan and Alberta to the Provincial Governments. This is a surprising attitude for the chief western organ of the Government which seized these resources when the Provinces were established. In those days The News was denounced in the columns of The Free Press as a black-hearted traitor to peace, order and good government because it insisted that these resources should belong to the Western Provinces, that they were the legitimate sources of Provincial revenue, and that they could be most satisfactorily developed under provincial control.

To the Winnipeg Free Press and all the Western Liberal politicians this was unsound doctrine. They professed to think that The News desired only to embarrass Sir Wilfrid Laurier and make mischief for his Administration. Instead, therefore, of leaving the natural resources of the middle West in the hands of the provinces where they belong, a system of cash subsidies was devised, and a relation established between the Western Provinces and the Dominion which it is now not so easy to alter.

How long before The Free Press will insist that Saskatchewan and Alberta should also have control over education and enjoy all the other constitutional rights and privileges which are vested in the Provincial Governments of older Canada? It has gone part of the way towards repentance. Why not make a full confession and get ease of conscience? It does look as though the chief business of Parliament for the next ten or fifteen years would be to undo the chief measures of the Laurier Government or to overcome the consequences of bad land policy and bad railway policy, of bad electoral methods and bad methods of administration.

PARTY PLUMS AND PENALTIES

(Alberta News, Edmonton)
Within a fortnight Canada has had two exhibitions of the political game when it is played apart from all the rules of decency and fair play. The Hon. C. R. Mitchell appeared in a most unenviable light when discussing the Medicine Hat court house proposition. His attitude was that of a petty petti-fogging politician incapable of overcoming his personal feelings in the interest of sanity and good judgment. Many a public question has, no doubt, been decided upon the principle that the party plums belong to the constituency that votes the party ticket, and that those who dare to act otherwise should be penalized, but rarely, if ever, has a responsible cabinet minister openly proclaimed his espousal of so indefensible a procedure. The Opposition were quite within their rights in making the most of the incident. The sting of their criticism may be lessened somewhat by the subsequent announcement that the court house would be built, and that no other course was ever seriously contemplated, but the public will not soon forget the pitiable exhibition of weakness presented by the Minister of Public Works.

WHY WERE NOT THE FIFTEEN LIBERAL SURPLUSES DEVOTED TO TARIFF REDUCTIONS?

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is now taking the position that the Government ought to lower the tariff because there is a fifty-million dollar surplus. The money, he argues, ought to go back into the pockets of the people through a reduction of the duties.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier has a convenient memory, or rather a convenient forgetfulness. He and his party were in office for fifteen years, coming in as free traders and staying in as protectionists. Did they reduce the tariff? They increased it in some notable instances—that of cement for one. Could they have reduced it? With Sir Wilfrid's, own argument as a basis, they could have done so. Here is what the Montreal Telegraph says, in announcing the advent of its new editor, Hon. W. S. Fielding:—

"Mr. Fielding had the distinction unique in Canadian history of introducing the budget for sixteen successive years, in each of which, excepting the first after he took office, he was able to report a surplus."

Here was no less than fifteen opportunities for the application of the argument which Sir Wilfrid Laurier finds it convenient to make now that he is no longer responsible for the administration of the country's finances.

The Minister of Finance has arranged a new loan in England on terms more advantageous than have been obtained by any other of the great British Dominions. This speaks well for Canada and the Administration.

Ten Reasons Why Diversified Farming Is The Best

1. It is the only system of farming that was ever carried on successfully and at a profit for a long series of years in any country.
2. Agriculture which is adapted to our climate was never permanently successful in any country where the people depended upon the one crop for their revenue.
3. It means freedom and relief from innumerable small debts. The man who is raising a diversity of crops, including livestock and poultry, has something he can sell any month in the year. The small sales such as eggs, butter, and occasionally an animal, take care of the minor expenses while the field crop is growing and being prepared for the market.

4. The farmer who is growing a diversity of crops has something to sell to sell that commands at least a fair price, and generally a high price, while the farmer who is depending upon one crop for his revenue is always at the mercy of the market, and frequently has to sell his product at a price which is really a sacrifice, and amounts to a loss.

5. The farmers who were never permanently successful in any community after the land had been tilled for 10 or 15 years, if they depended upon one crop.
6. In a country where the conditions were as they are with us, no farmer ever failed to succeed who diversified his crops, including in that diversification livestock and poultry, if he was reasonably economical, and took care of the product. That is, of course, barring some catastrophe such as fire or storm.

7. No soil in any country has ever been successfully and profitably cropped for a period of years after it has been in cultivation for say ten years, unless diversified farming was practiced.

8. A system of diversified farming, which resulted in producing feed on the farm, and its consumption and return to the land in the form of manure, is the only thing that has ever in any country maintained the fertility of the soil and its physical condition to the extent that the soil could be farmed for years and generations at a profit.

9. The fertility of the soil has never failed in any country that was once fertile, on the farms where the crops were diversified, a liberal proportion of them fed to live stock, and the manure returned to the fields.

10. Diversified farming means dual bills in the farmer's pocketbook or money in the bank. The one crop system means bills due and notes owing to the bank.

THE TRUTH ABOUT THAT CROTHERS RESOLUTION

Trades and Labor Congress Did Not Ask That Minister of Labor Resign.

The Liberal press has been heralding all over the country that the meeting of the Montreal Trades and Labor Congress asked for the resignation of Hon. T. W. Crothers, Minister of Labor. The facts are that the Congress did nothing of the kind, and that the resolution, and it was immediately squelched. "The Labor News," an independent labor paper published in Hamilton, in the following editorial comment, disposes of the Liberal coward:

"How the Liberal press 'swallowed' book, sinker, bait and all, in their headlines, articles, editorials, about the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada demanding the resignation of Minister of Labor Crothers."

The delegates introduced such a resolution and it was referred to the Resolution committee, who reported 'non-concurred,' and the convention adopted the committee's report. It was a tempest in a teapot."

Decrease in School Grants Hurts Towns

Dr. Stewart Objects But Government Passes Motion on Party Vote

Edmonton, Oct. 24.—The diminution of school grants to all villages, towns and cities, and to all the rural schools, as proposed under the new School Grants Act, was the topic of keen debate in the legislature yesterday. Dr. J. S. Stewart, member for Lethbridge, and educational critic for the opposition, spoke against the policy of decreasing the present grants to schools and argued in favor of an increase. After the bill had been read in committee of the whole house, Dr. Stewart moved that the bill be not reported.

He was supported by all members of the opposition, but the motion was defeated on straight party vote. The act as it stands will seriously affect the villages, towns and many of the rural districts which have experienced much difficulty in keeping the schools open, even with the present conservative government allowances. Only those schools that have been organized since January, 1910, will secure any increase, and these increases are to be cut into decreases after schools have been in operation for more than four years. The importance of the government proposal can best be explained by the result of computations which show that Edmonton and Calgary will lose over half their present government grants if the bill goes into force. Other cities will suffer proportionately according to the size and number of schools. The hardship will be greatest however upon towns, villages and rural districts, where the problem of school financing is always a most difficult one.

The house in committee yesterday passed amendments to the Treasury act, the Thrasher's Lien bill and a bill respecting livestock brands. A tremendous volume of legislation is still on the order paper.

Test Your Cows

Government Summer Months Yields Report

The average yield of 9,349 cows tested in dairy record centres maintained by the Dairy Division, Ottawa, in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces in August, was 622 pounds of milk, 3.6 per cent, 22.0 pounds of fat, almost identical with the average yields in August of 1912 and 1911.

Conceded beneath the comforting blanket of such a general average are widely different yields in various provinces, counties and herds. For instance, at St. Joseph's N.B., the average yield was 458 pounds of milk, at St. Prosper, Que., 611 pounds, at Woodstock, Ont., 809 pounds. Similarly the yield of fat varied from 37 to 27 pounds per cow. But comparing districts not so widely apart: the total yield of 446 cows at Farmers' Union, Ont., was 10,472 pounds of fat, but with 10 fewer cows at Frankford, Ont., the yield of fat was 880 pounds more. In the St. Hyacinthe, Que., district, a more startling comparison than this is the fact that one herd of 14 cows produced actually 4,940 pounds of milk more than another herd of 14. Similar comparisons might be made for herds at the several centres; but what is of infinitely more concern to the average patron is the comparative yield of each individual cow composing his herd. The wise, far-seeing dairyman knows from his records, so easily kept, just what each cow gives, not only for an odd month, but for the whole year. Then he strides toward intelligent improvement, not wanting the 498 pounds next month kind, but the type that yields six or seven or more thousand pounds per year.

SPORT

The only record broken on the Canadian running tracks this year was on August 20th, when Buck Thomas ran the half-mile in 47 seconds at Minoru Park track, but several records, particularly by two-year-olds, were equalled.

Newsy Lalonde, the great hockey and lacrosse player, has definitely decided to stay east, and is opening up a haberdashery business in Montreal.

The Calgary Plasterers' Pothall Club won the Trades and Labor League championship and were presented with the Shield on Thanksgiving Day at a banquet with 200 people present. This was the first year the Plasterers were represented with a team.

Joe Keeper, the Indian Olympic long distance runner, won the C.A. 5-mile road race at Winnipeg on Oct. 20. Keeper won by three yards in 27.34.

It must have been an exciting finish between the Eskimos and Tigers at Edmonton on Thanksgiving Day. The play off at Red Deer on Saturday next, November 1st, will be worth going to see. The "Devil" has already shown signs that his grandmother will be buried on that day, and the chances are that the office will be vacant also.

The Callies and Hillhurst, of Calgary, played another drawn game on Thanksgiving Day. There never is much to choose between these teams.

The question of the day is, where will the rugby championship match be played on Saturday? The position stands like this. The Tigers want it played at Calgary. The Eskimos want it played at Edmonton, and the President of the association wants it played on neutral grounds, Red Deer or Moose.

On Friday last W. H. Harey and J. E. Cunningham were seen measuring off the ground in front of the grand stand on the exhibition grounds. They came to the conclusion that if the ground was ploughed and graded level Red Deer would have the choicest association, rugby and cricket grounds in the province. At present the dirt running across the grounds about the centre spoil them. It would certainly pay the city to level the grounds inside the track the same way that has been done to the ground on the west side. We should then be prepared to offer the grounds for any game whatever.

The skating rink question is not yet settled. It was brought up on Thursday last and again discussed, and what is more important, was not shelved. Aldermen Botterill and Lord were appointed a committee to see what could be done. It is now up to these two gentlemen to give us that rink, even if they have to build it themselves. The eyes of all young Red Deer is upon them, and should they fail, well, we won't dream about it.

In talking of the skating rink, we overlook the one great question about it being placed on the fair grounds, because he thought the Agricultural Society were only working for their own ends. That's just how the Agricultural Society have to have some more buildings for next year anyway, and we have to have a skating rink as well. If we can kill two birds with one stone—kill them.

KING'S TEN SURGEONS

Peculiar Deed to Old English Estate Gets American Into Embarrassing Situation.

By HAROLD CARTER.

F. Addington Blake whistled as he set down his lawyer's letter. Then he looked out of the windows of the dining hall of Fyres Abbey into the heart of an English countryside in June. Suddenly he turned in answer to his wife's inquiry.

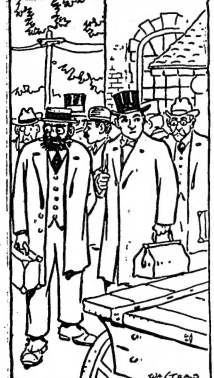

"Muriel, dear," he said, "if I hadn't received this letter by this morning's post we should have lost our new home for ever."

"How, dear?" inquired his pretty wife, startled.

"This way: You know Lord Tyneside, from whom we bought it, didn't appreciate having to sell a property which had been in his family for eight hundred years to an American whose father made his fortune packing pork. And you remember he was quite nasty to us. Well, he omitted to point to a very vital item in the title deed, which Barrett & Co. have just discovered in the sick of time. Fyres Abbey was granted to the first Lord Tyneside by Henry V., who, as you may remember, died of overeating. And, while nominally a gift, it was to be held, like many of these old estates, upon a curious condition, and to revert to the crown if over this condition were not complied with. In brief, the owner has to present to his majesty every year, on the anniversary of the gift, ten surgeons. And the anniversary is next Thursday. And the king is in Scotland."

"Present ten surgeons!" exclaimed Muriel in amazement.

"Yes, my dear. The original deed is almost unobtainable, but the lawyers say there is no doubt that the word is surgeons, or the spot where the king is, 'chirurgians.' I suppose King Henry used them to cure his indigestion."

'The Puzzled Medics Looked Around in Bewilderment.'

tion, but I'm sure I don't know what King George will use them for. I guess he'll knight them and send them home."

"But today's Tuesday, Francis. How are you going to get ten surgeons to Balmoral castle by Thursday. How can you get them without explaining and having them make appointments?" inquired Muriel Blake.

"I'll have to scour the district," replied her husband. "And by George, I'll have to get them at once."

"Well, dear, you'd better telephone to them to come immediately on urgent business," said Muriel. "I'll get the telephone book."

"They kept it out of the newspaper, but everybody in London was talking about the king's illness on Thursday afternoon, even before the train, bearing eleven gentlemen pledged to strict secrecy, rolled into Balmoral station. Upon the platform stood the station master, with any army of newspaper men."

"You've come to see his majesty, gentlemen?" inquired the former. For nobody could mistake ten surgeons, all in a row, although a single one might perhaps have escaped attention.

"Won't you let us know what is the matter with the king?" pleaded the youngest reporter ingeniously, as the puzzled medics looked around in bewilderment.

"Not a word!" exclaimed Mr. Blake angrily. "Gentlemen, this is all a mistake. There's nothing the matter with his majesty. This is purely a political visit."

"The king's playing golf on his links," piped up the inevitable small boy. "I saw him through the hedge."

"Then it'll be an operation," growled the station master.

"And you're sure it isn't appendicitis?" the youngest reporter was inquiring of the station master.

"How far is it to the castle?" demanded Mr. Blake savagely. "Isn't there a conveyance here?"

"Won't his majesty be sending his motor cars for you?" answered the station master, scratching his head.

"There's always cars to meet his guests. I'm thinking—"

But his thought did not materialize into further speech, for Blake, marshaling his followers together, had started off briskly in the direction of the royal golf links, followed by the army of newspaper men and preceded by the caddy, who had volunteered to show the way. At last they left the road, and traversing a field, halted before a hedge of hawthorn, behind which could be seen a golf green, stretching away up to where Balmoral castle stood in the midst of its parks and woods. There the doctors, who had been in quiet consultation, halted.

"Mr. Blake," said the leader a dignified, elderly gentleman, "before we go a step further we must insist on knowing just why you have brought us to Balmoral, and what your authority is. We respectfully decline to approach through a gap in a hedge."

pounds apiece," shouted Blake angrily. "You were to ask no questions. Didn't Lord Tyneside ever use your services?"

"Never!" responded the other, blandly. "He had his London physician. And unless you are willing to admit us through the front entrance, we must respectfully decline."

"But I've got to catch the king!" shouted Blake. "I'll lose my castle if I don't. I must find him at once."

He stopped suddenly, for the newspaper men had drawn round him, and the doctors were looking at one another significantly.

"My dear sir," said the eldest, in a smooth, professional voice, "if you will come back home, I am sure we can bring him to your bedside."

"My bedside? You think I'm crazy?" demanded Blake.

"Now, Mr. Blake, you've been overcome by the heat; you're not your self," said the other gently. "Come back to Fyres. There's a train—"

"I tell you I've got to see the king!" roared Blake, striding to the arms of the half dozen who were endeavoring to restrain him. As he shouted something whizzed over his head, and two men came up to the hedge.

"Sliced, sir!" exclaimed one of the players. "It'll be in the long grass, I think."

"I want to see the king!" yelled Blake, and the players stopped.

"At your service, sir," answered the other, a stout man with a pointed beard and prominent eyes. At the sight of him the doctors closed round Mr. Blake, attempting to pull him down.

"Listen, your majesty," shouted the American. "I'm not crazy. I've bought Fyres Abbey, and I've brought ten surgeons to pay my yearly rental. It says so in the deed. It was Lord Tyneside's place. Don't I have to bring you ten surgeons?"

"Ah! Fyres Abbey! Very interesting. No, sir, you've misread your deed. It's surgeons, not surgeons; but as surgeons don't frequent English water so much as they used to when the grant was made, the practice has become obsolete. Good morning, gentlemen."

PUSHED GOOD IDEA THROUGH
Bright Youngster Saw Opportunity, and Seized It, Though It Was Not a Very Large Thing.

"Going over the court records at the registry office to check up on our customers' financial standing takes fully two days of my time every month," complained the cashier of a small city bank to the president. "It's a lot of trouble, and yet it has to be done."

"The president had no suggestion to offer, but the remark reached the ears of a young man transacting business at one of the bank's offices and set him thinking.

"There must be a good many other business concerns that need just the same information," he argued with himself. "If one were to get up a subscription list of them, it might be worth while to furnish daily reports from the registry office, reports that could be got out in an hour or so a day."

The young man went to the busy cashier and explained his idea. "Each day I will prepare a list of all mortgages filed with the clerk of the court for record, showing names, amounts and property involved. A list of satisfactions of mortgage will also be included. The charge will be one dollar a month. That isn't much for the time it will save you."

The cashier jumped at the offer, and within a very short time the enterprising young man had more than fifty subscribers. The lists were compiled by his sister, who spent an hour or two a day in the registry office, and the returns made a neat addition to their joint income, for the young man did not find it necessary to give up his old work, which was an excellent one, to take up his new job.

One on Dad.

This sentimental story is vouchsafed for, but somehow or other it sounds strangely familiar to us. Somebody will write in tomorrow and tell us that it was in Hostetter's Almanac for 1889, but we'll take that chance.

The preacher was calling at little Bobby's house.

"And do you always say your prayers at night, my little Bobby?" asked the clergyman.

"Yes, sir," answered Bobby, "an' mamma does, too."

"That's right," said the minister. "But doesn't your papa say his prayers?"

"No—he don't have to."

"Why, what do you mean?"

"He don't have to—because, see, he never gets home till it's daylight, an' then what is there to pray about?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Industrial Japan

Japan each year produces more than 800,000,000 bushels of rice, nearly 60,000,000 pounds of tea, and more than 25,000,000 pounds of silk.

HELPS FARM PRODUCE

The strides that Ontario has made in the automobile industry in the past eight years were remarkably evidenced at the Motor Show recently held in Toronto. When the first auto show was held in 1905 there was scarcely a town outside of Toronto that had an automobile industry of any sort, either for the manufacture of cars or accessories.

Now, in the eighth year, there are large manufacturing plants in Brantford, Orillia, Brockville, Ottawa, Windsor, St. Catharines, Berlin, Amherstburg, Peterborough, London, and other cities.

Every one of these industrial centres provides a healthy market for the farm produce of the contiguous country.

Dr. Darby's Address on International Peace

The lecture delivered by Dr. Darby in the school assembly hall, on Oct. 15th, was interesting in so far as it served to show the extreme attitude of the so-called Peace party. It would be difficult to directly challenge any of the statements made by the lecturer, but in many cases if Dr. Darby had told the whole story instead of just a part, an entirely different impression would have been left in the minds of his hearers. A case in point is his reference to Britain's actions after the first Peace conference. After a great show of pacifist sentiment at the Hague, Britain took the lead in adding to her armaments. The lecturer apparently wished to convey the impression that England acted in bad faith, while he knew as well, or perhaps better, that anyone in his audience that the rapid increase in armaments was due to the Boer war which began soon after.

The lecturer referred at some length to the fact that England blocked the way to international peace by her opposition to the proposal to make merchant vessels immune from attack in time of war. This may or may not be a good thing from a military point of view. We expected to find in the account published in the Advocate some reference to the extremely able argument in its favor put forward by Mr. F. E. Smith, but not a word.

Mr. Lloyd-George, Sol.

Seeley and Mr. Winston Churchill are all quoted. Is it because Mr. Smith is a Conservative that he is not worthy of mention when "peace" is being discussed? It was amusing to hear a man of Mr. Darby's attainments pretending not to know the reasons why both parties in England agree upon the necessity of maintaining the two power standard. Every school boy knows that England's only real ally is the navy. That while Germany or Russia or France could mobilize armies of millions of men, Britain could only muster about half a million. The British navy must be strong enough to compensate for the difference in the size of the armies.

Dr. Darby drew vividly upon his imagination to picture to his audience the evil results that would follow the advent of the military spirit into Canada. If the learned gentleman thinks that he can frighten Canadians with such stories as the one he related about the conduct of a militia officer at Nanaimo, he is very much mistaken.

The incident in question was reported by the press last week, and concerned some drunken spree in which a militiaman became involved. The officer in charge thought it advisable to issue a warning to the public because of the threatening attitude toward the militia, who, he says, were being jeered at and abused while performing their duty. This was held up as a horrible example of the intolerance of the military authorities. We were asked to consider the position in Germany where military officers on the slightest provocation assaulted people with the flat of their swords. This, we are told, is what will happen here. What rubbish! The speaker knows that such things have not occurred in England since the press, and England is more of a military state than Canada will ever be.

An adroit attempt was made to stir up the question of autonomy by an allusion to government from Whitehall, but, for the information of the lecturer, we would like to say that Canadians are just as much afraid of that as they are that Napoleon has been dead some time) is going to invade us.

A pointed question was asked relative to the attitude of Lloyd-George on this question. It is well known that Lloyd-George for years was a warm advocate of peace, and yet so far has he fallen from Grace that last year we find him issuing a warning to Germany to keep her hands off, and admitting, while deploring, the necessity of keeping up the expenditure on armaments. Does it not seem probable that the reason for this change of attitude is that since becoming a minister of the Crown Lloyd-George has had access to information that has convinced him of the urgent necessity of being prepared. We would like to assure Dr. Darby and those who think with him of our heavy co-operation in every movement toward international peace consistent with honor and common sense, but we think that he would obtain a lot more sympathy in his work if he didn't talk so much about the "failures" of England. One does not think very highly of a man who goes about speaking disparagingly of his own people. Undoubtedly, England has made many grave mistakes, but in spite of all her failures she is doing her share to maintain peace in the world, and has shown every desire to conclude arbitration treaties with other nations. Under present circumstances, we believe that England is doing much to ensure peace by being prepared for war. Any show of weakness would invite attack. So let us be prepared.

Eckville

R. Matheatt, of Coronation, is visiting at the parental home.

Miss Erickson, of Lockhart, is the guest of Miss T. Brown.

Mrs. (Dr.) Evans visited friends in Edmonton during the week.

Miss A. Hampton and Miss McLaughlin attended the convention of teachers in Innisfail. Miss Hampton contributed a paper, which was much appreciated.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Williams and Mrs. W. McPherson, of Bentley, were callers in Eckville on Wednesday.

The box social held by the Eckville Improvement Co. on Oct. 24th was a grand success. The number of boxes sold was not large, but the prizes were good, so that $90 was realized.

Mr. McDonald and Miss Baird of Piteux supplied the music for the dance, and all present enjoyed a pleasant evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Brumley are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Mitzner.

Sylvan Lake

A particularly distressing accident, with fatal results, occurred here on Tuesday evening last at the crushing mill of Messrs. Golden & Simson, now being run by Mr. H. Nelson Dickson. A load of wheat and barley was being crushed, when Fulton Johnston, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston, residing 2 1/2 miles west of the town, was caught in the driving wheel of the gasoline engine. The unfortunate lad was whirled round with the wheel several times before the engine was stopped, very severe injuries being inflicted, from which he succumbed early on Friday morning. Immediately after the accident he was conveyed to the home of his parents, and was attended by Dr. Rousseau of Sylvan Lake and Dr. Parsons of Red Deer. Dr. George in his capacity as coroner made an enquiry into the matter.

The Village Council have given out a contract for the ditching of the Lake front road west of Heenan's store to the Alexander Hotel, a much needed improvement. The opening up of the Alexander Crescent road is also being actively proceeded with, as is the ditching of the land to the west of the Crescent, the benefit of which will be felt and appreciated next spring.

The Red Deer road is now in as good a condition as it is possible for such a road to be, and the weather at Red Deer and the Lake is simply glorious. Shooting is excellent, ducks, prairie chicken, partridges and rabbits being very plentiful, but the visits of Red Deer people are few and far between.

A haystack belonging to a resident of the Lake was fired, on Thursday last and totally destroyed, the damage amounting to about $1000. Incendiarism is suspected.

Natural Gas Possibilities

City Engineer Dawe presented the following report on the possibilities of natural gas in Red Deer to the City Council at its meeting on Thursday evening last:

For some time past the Council and citizens of the City of Red Deer have been considerably agitated over the advisability of the expenditure of certain municipal funds in ascertaining the existence of natural gas in and around Red Deer.

There may be some doubt in the minds of many as to the justification of a body representative of the citizens speculating with any money which may be at their disposal; as to whether this is a matter of importance or not is for you to determine, but we submit that any enterprise which it is contemplated to enter into should not be gone into without some assurance of its ultimate success. In consequence of this and in compliance with a request made to us in a letter dated September 29th, 1913, addressed by the City Council, we beg to offer the following suggestions:

We shall endeavor to place before the Council the essence of such facts and other data as may have been accumulated from time to time by private corporations and also Government investigations.

The proposition of experimenting with a view to the finding of natural gas is a mining and geological one, and, like all the principles of geology, we endeavor to interpret the unknown from the known and the past in the light of the present. We have no means of ascertaining the exact nature of formations which may underlie any particular district with absolute accuracy without actual tests. It is true that at certain points on the surface of the earth, and also from limited penetrations, we attempt to classify definitely particular formations, and from them we attempt to surmise what the geological formation might be between these points for some distance below the surface. This idea can be illustrated in this way:

Suppose a piece of timber of unknown dimensions and unknown alignment be buried in the earth with two ends protruding from what is visible of the two ends we may be able to determine with some degree of accuracy what might be the alignment and also the dimensions of the hidden.

Natural gas is a combination of carbon and hydrogen, about sixty per cent. as heavy as air; its existence has been known from earliest records. The earliest historical record of its use was in Greece about 1000 years B.C. The fire worshippers on the shores of the Caspian Sea kept a natural gas flow burning for centuries.

In mining work the same natural gas is known as fire damp.

In the United States the Indians used to set fire to these natural gas vents and viewed them with a semi-religious veneration.

The earliest gas well used for commercial purposes was located in the village of Fredonia, N.Y. This well was only one and one-half inches in diameter and twenty-seven feet deep, and it furnished the village with three street lights. This well was drilled in the year 1821.

In 1838, while digging a well for water at Findlay (Ohio) a foul smelling gas was encountered and the well abandoned. This was afterwards supplying gas for domestic purposes for a period of fifty years. In 1865 this same district became famous for the production of natural gas.

The Pennsylvania and Ohio gas reservoirs, on account of extravagant display, became very much depleted, and this was not seriously considered until 1890 and 1891, when a gas meter was introduced, thereby curbing the waste.

The greater development with which we are all more or less acquainted, and which has taken place in Western Canada, is that at Bow Island, where possibly the largest quantity of natural gas ever discovered in one district has been successfully transported through steel pipe a distance of nearly two hundred miles to the city of Calgary. Nearer home than Bow Island, success has been met to a lesser degree at Castor lying to the north-east of Red Deer, and Wetaskiwin, situated at about sixty miles directly north of us.

For some time there existed among scientists considerable differences of opinion as to the origin of petroleum and natural gas. By some it was supposed to be the result of the decomposition of organic matter. The almost universally accepted theory now is that it is of volcanic origin, and that the fluid interior of the earth contains large quantities of carbon and sulphur, both chemical properties of petroleum, and that in combination with water, hydrocarbons have been forced by volcanic action through fissures and breaks in the rocks into the sands in which they are now found. As further evidence of this, gaseous emanation from volcanoes are chemical combinations similar to natural gas. Volcanic rocks have also been found to contain traces of petroleum.

The two leading requisites necessary for the accumulation of natural gas in reasonably large quantities are:—

1. An open or porous strata to serve as a reservoir for the gas.

2. An impervious strata of shale sealing the upper surface of the porous strata.

Gas wells vary considerably in depth, from 250 to 3,000 feet, with diameter varying from 2 to 8 inches. The open flow varies from 500 to 35,000,000 cubic feet per 24 hours. Their rock pressures or closed pressures vary from 1 to 1,500 lbs. per square inch. A fairly good well would be one having a rock pressure of 300 to 400 lbs. and a volume of 1,000,000 feet per day.

The cost of drilling gas wells in this country varies from $9.00 to $12.00 per cubic foot, including casing. The casing is laid in the ground by means of heavy weights attached by clamps so that the flow of gas can be controlled at pleasure.

The formation in which natural gas is generally found is composed of porous sand-stone or lime-stone, but a limited quantity is sometimes found in shales, and it is assumed that this is simply a leakage from a larger reservoir below. The most fruitful source of supply in Canada appears to be what is known as the Dakota sand-stone. It is from these Dakota sand-stones that large flows have been struck near Athabasca and also at Bow Island. That smaller quantities of gas are found above this Dakota sand-stone has been proven at Castor and Wetaskiwin.

At Castor 250,000 cubic feet of gas were encountered with a rock pressure of about 300 lbs. to the square inch at a depth of 1,455 feet. At Wetaskiwin a similar well was drilled, and approximately 325,000 feet of gas encountered with a rock pressure of 175 lbs. The depth was about the same as at Castor.

At both Castor and Wetaskiwin the bottom of the wells were not within 2,000 feet of the productive Dakota gas sands.

From the general geological map of Canada, the formation at Red Deer taken in order from the top would be as follows:

1. From the surface, a layer of Sedimentary Rocks.
2. The Edmonton Series.
3. The Foxhill and Pierre.
4. Belly River.
5. Benton and Niobrara.
6. Dakota Sand-stone.

The total thickness of these different strata would aggregate approximately 3,500 feet. The formations at Castor and Wetaskiwin are the same as at Red Deer, with the exception of the top layer of sedimentary rocks. The sedimentary rocks in this neighborhood are possibly 700 feet in thickness.

There is another important geological fact associated with districts in which gas has been found in commercial quantities, namely, that it is generally found at the summit of an anticline. The fact, unfortunately, is rather an adverse one as regards the situation at Red Deer, as we are situated in a trough. As some consolation, it might be added that petroleum is generally found under such circumstances.

While geological investigation is of considerable importance in determining the possibilities of a gas field, there is only one absolute test, and that is by penetrating deep enough to ascertain.

C. Hamilton called on us last Wednesday and showed us a $10 cheque he had received for his services at the time of the Fenian raids, 1866. Mr. Hamilton at that time was a gunner in the Pictou artillery. His company numbered 40, of which there are only 10 left, he being one of the number. We hope he will live long to enjoy his pension.

RUGBY CHAMPIONSHIP MATCH AT RED DEER

Saturday, November 1st.

We have received word from the President of the Alberta Rugby Association, Rev. Robt. Pearson, that the rugby match between the Edmonton Eskimos and Calgary Tigers will be played in Red Deer on Saturday next, November 1st. Mr. Pearson will be up on Friday to make the necessary arrangements.

The match will be played on the Fair grounds in front of the grand stand. Special trains are being run from both Edmonton and Calgary, and they are bringing a large number of people into the city. It is to every man, not only in the city, but in the district as well, to see and see this game in position. Red Deer has a reputation in the sporting world which it is well to keep up. Let them see we can boast sport as well as our beautiful city.

PRESENTATION TO E. MICHENER, M.P.P.

E. Michener was the recipient of an unexpected surprise gift yesterday. He received a watch fob with a solid gold locket attached, as a remembrance from the Conservative members of the Alberta Legislature.

Mr. Michener appreciates the gift more than words can express. The following inscription is on the locket: "To Our Leader From the Boys, 1913."

Last announcement: Don't forget the Halloween dance at the Parish Hall, Friday evening.

A. H. Trimble Brings in the Best Dairy Cattle Ever Seen in This District

A. H. Trimble arrived from the east on Tuesday of last week with five carloads of pure bred and grade dairy cattle, which are stated to be the finest cattle of their class ever brought into this district.

Mr. Trimble had not the slightest trouble in disposing of every head brought in, with the exception of 25, that he is keeping himself. He says some of the stock in this bunch are better than he has ever had himself before, and that is saying a great deal. Among the buyers were Messrs. Tilden, 11 head; J. Spiers, 20 head; B. O. Fitch and A. A. Trimble. Mr. Trimble brought about 110 head, and had he brought 500 he would have had no difficulty in getting rid of them. The animals Mr. Trimble brought in for himself were, of course pure bred Ayrshires, while most of the other animals were high grade Holsteins of the best milking strains, the majority being two-year-olds of good appearance.

Sons of England Move to New Quarters

The Sons of England Benefit Society are changing their lodge room from the Oddfellows' Hall to the Parish Hall of St. Luke's Church. The first meeting on Wednesday, November 5th, in their new quarters will take the form of a social gathering, to which every member of the Order is invited to bring two friends, ladies or gentlemen. The social will consist of a concert, with refreshments, which will probably be followed by a dance. Members are invited to bring along the good things with them.

Hillsdown

A Halloween social will be given in Red Wing school on Friday evening, October 31st, at 8.15 p.m. Admission free. Collection for charity. A cordial welcome to all. Ladies are invited to bring cake.

A series of sermons on the Lord's Supper, beginning November 1st, will be given by W. Eakin, missionary on the Cumberland field, at Valley Centre, Cumberland, and Red Wing schools. A cordial welcome to all. Come and hear these interesting subjects.

The Ladies' Hospital Aid of Red Deer are arranging a "Made in Canada Fair" and a supper on the 28th to raise much needed funds for hospital supplies. As the name implies, all articles to be on sale are Canadian products, which are generously donated by wholesalers and retailers. It has been suggested that we give the farmers of our community an opportunity of assisting the hospital, which belongs to, and benefits the country as much as the town, and many of the farmers have always been so willing and anxious to assist. We take this means of asking you for donations of any kind of farm or dairy produce, which can be disposed of at the sale or used for the supper.

Donations of such products as grain, hay, vegetables, butter, eggs, cream, fowl, etc., will be received with thanks by Mrs. W. A. D. Lees, President, Mrs. S. N. Carscallen, Secretary, Mrs. George Best, Treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Cunningham, and Mrs. W. Smith, left at the Merchants Bank of Canada.

PLAYS AT THE EMPRESS. Lovers of drama and comedy have had a rare treat during the past week at the Empress Theatre. David Harum was a play not to be forgotten. Freckles, too, was worth every cent paid to see it. The scenery was splendid, and the acting of the members of the company left nothing to be desired. Then there was the three nights' visit of Harry Willis and Hazel Dell. These two artists drew a crowd each night, and there is no doubt they will always be a popular drawing card in Red Deer. Mr. Willis' programme is one of the best of its kind, and that he draws applause with each of them. Miss Hazel Dell supports him very ably. She is charming and her singing is beautiful. They make a strong combination.

HEATERS!

If a Heating Stove will save its cost, isn't it the stove you should buy?

Consumption of fuel is the big item to look at when making purchase of a heater. Some stoves give equal radiation for all the fuel consumed, while many consume quantities, but do not give results.

Any one of our line of heaters will save its cost quickly, and you have always the greatest of satisfaction in using it.

We are glad to show these heaters and explain their make-up.

FARMERS:

We have a fine line of modern, new style lanterns for you to inspect. The dark evenings and mornings are coming on, and a good lantern will be useful.
